If the two cases were reversed, then the write back from M_valE would take priority, causing the incremented stack pointer to be passed as the argument to the `rrmovq` instruction.